DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of the amendment filed 04/27/2009. Information disclosure statements were filed 04/23/2009, 03/06/2009 and 02/09/2009.

The rejections under 35 USC112, first paragraph and 35 USC 102(b) are withdrawn in view of applicant's amendment.

The rejection under 35 USC 103(a) over Faxon in view of Tardiff is maintained in this action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 04/27/2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that neither reference , whether taken alone or in combination disclose or even suggest the combination of a device, a polymeric solution, a therapeutic agent and an antioxidant.

However, applicant does not address why both references would not be combined in order to obtain the same therapeutic result. Faxon sets out a polymeric coated stent containing rapamycin. Tardiff additionally shows the effect of antioxidants such as probucol in treating restenosis. Combining the two in a polymeric stent would therefore flow from their teachings that they are used to treat the same disease. As such, the instant invention would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention given the combined teachings of Faxon in view of Tardiff.

Articles by Yokio et al and WO/2005/016399 from applicant's recently filed IDS are cited as articles teaching the use of antioxidants in treating restenosis and antioxidants in stents, respectively.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
